

Bradley Wolff, the son of Bobby Wolff and Sally Lancaster, grew up in the small Western-Kentucky town of Elkton which is located in Todd Co. He later attended and graduated from Hopkinsville High School in Hopkinsville, KY where he was a 4-year letterman football and a 2-year letterman in wrestling. He was also a 4-year member of the HHS Choir and Chamber Ensemble and went on to earn KY All-State honors.

Bradley is the husband of Jennifer Wolff of Owensboro, KY. They were introduced in 2001 and were married in 2006 and now reside in Fern Creek, KY. Bradley has served United Parcel Service since 2001 and his current role is Business Professional in the Plant Engineering Department at Worldport, the world's largest automated parcel sorting facility. He is currently pursuing a degree in Mechanical Engineering at the University of Louisville Speed Engineering School. Bradley and Jennifer attend Southeast Christian Church.