

Sarah Trainor is currently a senior at the University of Louisville, where she is majoring in Political Science. After graduation, she aspires to move to Washington D.C. and work in the political field.

She is interning at the Leadership Louisville Center, helping to coordinate the Bingham Fellows, a community action program that is engaging the community on the $25 million GE/JCPS Math-Science Initiative. She is responsible for planning program logistics. She previously served as the Youth Coordinator at Kentucky Youth Advocates, the state's only multi-issue children's advocacy organization. In this role, she trained students on leadership development and spoke with over 2,000 high school students on the importance of supporting a Graduated Driver's Licensing (GDL) program in Kentucky. She also successfully helped lobby the Kentucky General Assembly to pass a GDL bill.

Sarah is actively involved in politics, having worked on several local judicial campaigns. Since February 2007, she has served as the Kentucky State Director of Students for Barack Obama. She is also serving on the Kentucky Steering Committee for Obama for America.

She is excited about serving on the board for Steward's Staff. She has been a firm believer that we need to work together to improve the quality of our community by providing opportunities for growth to everyone.
